The Clinical Supervision Essentials Series represents central resources for understanding contemporary models of psychotherapy supervision.

Each book in the series presents a concise review of the history, principles, techniques, and processes of an approach to supervision, including detailed analysis of a single supervision session and discussion of evidence supporting the approach. The books also include transcripts of authors' supervisory sessions with real trainees documented in the companion DVDs.

These DVDs feature demonstrations of a therapist conducting supervision with a student and an interview with the experts, conducted by hosts Hanna Levenson and Arpana G. Inman.

Together, the books and videos are indispensable guides for students learning how to supervise, as well as practitioners seeking quick references to improve their own supervision skills.
